Basic Riddle Cited

Truth About Cancer

(The following is the second in a series of three articles by a Victoria physician who is thoroughly acquainted with the problems of cancer.)

In the previous article (in Sunday's Colonist) it was stated that the basic cause of cancer is not yet known. There can be no doubt that certain factors do make the individual more prone to develop the disease.

Heredity is one factor; many families show the tendency, generation after generation, far too strongly for this to lie in doubt. Chronic irritation is unquestionably a forerunner of malignancy; the man who holds the hot stem of his pipe on the same spot on his lower lip year after year is risking what we call an epithelioma, a variety of skin cancer.

And there seems little doubt that the person who smokes cigarets in chain fashion for 20 years or more stands a far greater chance of developing cancer of the lung than his non-smoking neighbor.

But these and other factors are only the fertilizers, so to speak, that enrich the soil in which cancer may develop.

CHANGE IN CELL TISSUE

The development of cancer depends on a basic change in the tissue cells of the affected system or part of the body. The cell begins to grow abnormally; under the microscope it appears larger and darker than its normal neighbor. It develops the ability to split the nucleus and these split nuclei are called mitotic figures by the pathologist.

And along with these characteristics the malignant cell acquires the ability to migrate. It splits off, or a clump of malignant cells splits off, from the parent body and wanders along the blood or lymph vessels to settle in a new location and to begin to grow as a fresh tumor. This is the group of cells called a metatastasis.

What gives the cancer cell its ability to burst out of bounds, to infiltrate neighboring normal tissue and to migrate to distant parts of the body? What, for that matter, changes the normal cell into a malignant cell in the first place? This is the

Village Faces Disaster

EAST RIMOUSKI, Que. (CP)—This small community on the St. Lawrence river south shore has been living for more than a month on the edge of a gasoline-filled area that, in the opinion of experts, might be ignited by a single spark.

Municipal authorities evacuated, at civic expense, families from five homes and ordered the Roman Catholic parish church closed down March 30.

Source of the gasoline is a large, cracked gasoline-carrying pipe.

The density of the vapors in the condemned area is so high, experts say, that static electricity could ignite the gas fumes.

Police chief Yvon Couture, who was ordered from his home Thursday, said he took seven gallons of liquid from his cellar and poured it into the tank of a car owned by a member of his force.

"The car worked fine," he said.

Eight Lost As Ship Sinks

DUNOON, Scotland (Reuters)—Eight men were missing Monday night from the Swedish freighter Akka which sank near here after striking a cluster of rocks.

Lifeboats and private craft picked up 26 survivors during searches of the firth of Clyde.

They Said It with Flowers

Safe, $35,000 Stolen

Bandits Believed Trapped By Kitimat's Mountains

Getaway Problem In Remote Centre

KITIMAT—Thieves stole a safe containing $35,000 from the Hudson's Bay Co. store here over the weekend, but are believed trapped by encircling mountains in this remote aluminum smelting town.

RCMP officers said last night the safe was removed from the store between Saturday night and sometime Sunday in what appeared to have been the work of an organized gang. The thieves are believed to have entered the store by a rear door.

At Victoria RCMP headquarters, an official said the loot was made up of $17,000 in cash and $18,000 in cheques. The cheques are probably not negotiable.

An RCMP inspector at Prince Rupert said it would take several men to carry the five-foot-square safe, and he believed it had not yet been blown.

The first major robbery in this new industrial centre of the Aluminum Company of Canada, it was not discovered until yesterday.

A nine-man police squad was sent from Prince Rupert Monday to try to trace the safe, believed to be still in Kitimat.

There are no roads out of this town of 5,000 persons, surrounded by steep mountain ranges, at the head of Douglas channel, but there are ample hiding places among fallen timber for the safe.

Only means of exit are by rail to Terrace in the North-central interior, by boat 100 miles down the Douglas channel to the sea, or by plane.

EDMONTON (CP)—Three Canadian National Railways employees reported Monday that $44,300 had disappeared from an express van. If it was stolen, the theft would be the largest in the city's history.

CNR officials said their checking system indicated the money had been loaded in the van.

It arrived here by train Saturday—city police said it was a consignment from the Bank of Canada—and was destined for the main branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. The money was held in a railway vault during the weekend.

The loss was reported by van driver Lorne Bissell, 40, guard William Roberts, 20, and messenger Edward Gagne, 21.

They said the 8,800 new $5 bills and three new $100 bills were in two packages enclosed in a canvas bag. After delivering $12,600 to one branch of the Royal Bank and $1,500 in silver to a branch of the Bank of Montreal, they said, they discovered only one of two cash bags consigned to the Royal Bank main branch remained in the van. The bag that was left contained no cash.

'Leatherneck' Training

Marines Die in Swamp On Disciplinary March

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (UP)—Five marines drowned in a dense tidal swamp and a sixth was missing yesterday after a drill instructor marched a platoon of recruits into the rugged area, apparently to discipline them.

The drill instructor, Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, a 31-year-old Korean war veteran from Worcester, Mass., was placed in custody.

The bodies of five recruits, drowned during Sunday night's march, were pulled from the swamp yesterday. An all-out search, involving a helicopter and civilian shrimp boat, was pressed for the missing man.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Gen. Randolph McC. Pate, Marine Corps commandant, arrived here from Washington to take personal charge of the investigation. A statement released by the Marine Corps in Washington promised that he would "make sure that nothing of this sort could ever happen again on a marine base."

Pate said that a marine corps board of inquiry, already established by Maj.-Gen. Joseph C. Burger, base commander, would begin hearings today.

Though the marine corps did not say so, the action of the drill sergeant apparently was a disciplinary measure.

Capt. Ralph C. Wood, marine corps recruit depot public information officer, was asked whether the night march in the swamp was to discipline the marines.

"It was an action of the drill instructor," he said.

He added that instructors often rout their platoons out at night for drill and other exercises for various reasons.

In its statement the marine corps said a preliminary inquiry showed that McKeon took his platoon on a hike about 9 p.m. EST.

"He marched them about a mile to an uninhabited marshy and swampy area," the statement said. "Not completely familiar with the terrain, the drill instructor led his men into the swamp and into a stream.

"With no lights and in the ensuing confusion, the missing men were lost in the darkness."

Shakespeare In Siberia

MOSCOW (AP)—A first folio edition of Shakespeare has turned up in the middle of Siberia, of all places, says the director of a British book exhibition in Moscow. Bought by a Russian merchant in the 18th century, it was found in a library at Tomsk.

Radar Line Goes to Sea

WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration plans a seaward extension of the northern distant early warning line against enemy bombers if congress approves a new $547,100,000 defence fund request.

Defence secretary Charles E. Wilson said the navy would be used to increase navy personnel strength to extend the DEW line into the ocean. It also would provide for operation of early warning aircraft and related bases.

Middle East Warned

U.S. Would Help Against Aggressor

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower, viewing the tense Middle East situation as one of "utmost seriousness," declared Monday the United States is "determined to support and assist any nation" subjected to aggression in that area.

A White House statement issued with "full approval of the president," said the U.S. "in accordance with its responsibilities under the charter of the United Nations, will observe its commitments within constitutional means to oppose any aggression" in the strife-ridden area.

NO ELABORATION

The White House statement, put out shortly after Eisenhower arrived here for a week of golf combined with work, did not go into any detail.

But White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, who issued the statement, said it obviously meant that if the UN declares any nation an aggressor in the Middle East, the U.S. is, as the statement put it, "determined to support and assist any nation which might be subjected to such aggression."

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The Arab-Israeli strife in Palestine Monday night disrupted a meeting of the Communist-sponsored World Peace Council.

Israeli delegates bluntly accused the Soviet Union and her satellites of aiding aggression in the Middle East by shipping arms to Egypt.

The Arabs refused to sit down with the Israelis.

"We will never shake their bloody hands," Arab representatives shouted.

KANSAS CITY (Reuters)—Sir Roger Makins, British ambassador to the United States, said Monday night there is a remarkably wide and satisfactory measure of agreement between Britain and the United States on Middle Eastern aims and policies.

"Of course it is inconceivable that two governments, or indeed two people, should instantly agree without full discussion about what should be done in an exceptionally complex and rapidly moving situation."

'Hope for Conquest of Cancer Lies in Scientific Research'

The hope for a cancer cure lies in scientific research, Health Minister Eric Martin said yesterday.

He made the statement in an appeal to all residents of B.C. to give full support to the current Conquer Cancer Campaign—an appeal for funds by the Canadian Cancer Society.

"This appeal . . . is perhaps the most pressing of all."

"The best hope lies in early detection and quick action in surgery and radiology," commented the minister.

He made no reference to the cancer cure claims of Victoria MLA Mrs. Lydia Arsens who has been plugging the cures said to be effected at the Hoxsey clinics in the U.S.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said last week the government did not support Mrs. Arsens' statements.

"The current appeal for funds is to provide enough money to further the excellent research projects and to provide research facilities as well as to provide for educational programs and welfare assistance," Mr. Martin said.

Research all over the world was proceeding in a co-ordinated fashion and there is hope with chemo-therapy, the minister continued.

"There has actually been some response to two specific drugs, out of thousands tried, and although it might be anywhere from months to years, it appears as if the wall has at least been cracked and success is that much closer," he said.

Important research projects were operating in B.C. and formed an integral part of the over-all research program.

"There exists a tragic need for more trained research people, more physical facilities and these depend upon getting more money," stated Mr. Martin.

The provincial government, he said, this year will contribute $260,000, matched by federal grants, to the operation of the two cancer clinics as well as the travelling clinic which deal with the actual treatment of the dread disease.

"The need is great—cancer is the second greatest killer and the hope for a cure lies in research," concluded the minister. "Support the 1956 conquer cancer campaign."

B.C.'s VC Party Gets Cash Grant

Grant of $200 to each of the B.C. residents invited to attend the Victoria Cross centenary celebrations in London this summer will be made by the provincial government.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said yesterday that 27 people would be going to the celebrations from this province. This includes winners of the Commonwealth's highest award for bravery, their relatives, and companions.

"There may be more and if so we will of course make more money available," explained the premier.

Lieut.-Cmdr. Rowland Bourke, VC, 1253 Lyall, said the grant was "very generous, indeed, and of course will be very useful."

Commander Bourke is "definitely" going to attend the celebrations. He leaves here by air with his wife June 16 for a month-long visit.

Also flying from here June 16 is Mrs. Jean T. Combe, Brentwood Bay, widow of Lieut. R. G. Combe, won the VC in France in 1917.

Lieut.-Col. Cyrus Peck, VC, of Sidney, said last night he and his wife would make the trip.

This area's third VC winner, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP, was unavailable for comment last night.

Reds Dangle Credit Lure

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union has granted credits totalling 21,000,000,000 rubles ($5,000,000,000) for industrial development in Communist and non-Communist nations, L. G. Kabanov, Soviet minister for foreign trade, told the United Nations economic commission for Europe Monday.

Revolt Flares

Trouble Shaping In Aden, Bahrein

LONDON (AP)—Britain Monday night ran into new troubles in two key territories in the boiling Middle East.

Signs of anti-British revolt have developed in Aden, a colony at the southern tip of the Arabian mainland. And new threats have been aimed at British influence on the oil-producing island of Behrein in the Persian gulf.

In Aden, dissident Arab tribesmen are being armed to resist a British plan to federate the protected states of southwestern Arabia. Britain suspects Saudi Arabian and Yemeni guns are being smuggled across the desert frontiers.

Bahrein has become the centre of a two-pronged drive to oust the British. Both Iran and Saudi Arabia claim the 300-square-mile island, which lies 20 miles from Saudi Arabia and 150 miles from Iran.

Britain is protector of the island, which she regards as an independent sheikhdom now ruled by Sulman Bin Hamad al Khalifah.

Women Ask Protection From Purse-Snatchers

Aroused by recent purse-snatchings in the city in which elderly women were victimized, the Local Council of Women called yesterday for more police protection, especially at weekends.

The appeal will be submitted to the city police commission in a letter from the council.

Police officials said last night no comment could be made on the request until the letter has been received by the commission.

Two purse-snatching incidents have been reported in the city in less than two weeks.

Mrs. Quong Mar, 66, 811 Caledonia, saved her purse but suffered minor bruises when pushed to the ground by two teen-age youths near her home after dark on March 30.

Two boys, said to be between 12 and 15, snatched a purse the night of April 5 from Mrs. Alice Perks, 85, 828 Courtney, as she walked home from a church service.

A Skinny Kid, All Alone

Grace Looks Aft—a Tear Falls

By RUSSELL HARRIS
North American Newspaper Alliance

ABOARD SS CONSTITUTION—It is strange how people, princess or chambermaid, find peace of heart and strength of mind in the solitude of, say, an airliner in the bright midnight above the clouds, or the almost holy quiet of a Michigan lake at dusk or, say, the curl of the waves from the shuddering sides of a ship at sea.

For Grace Kelly, the search goes on hourly now. Watch her on the bleached deck, a skinny kid, alone, staring at the blue-black water below, the empty horizon hiding her homeland behind, the great thunderheads springing between her and her future, ahead.

This is a queer thing. You are tempted to write that once-upon-a-time there was a reasonably handsome prince who met a Hollywood star and they promised to live happily ever after.

But you have watched Grace Kelly for several days now; the wet eyes behind the dark glasses when no one was supposed to be looking, the tired shoulders that slump in the corridors, the long fingers twisting nervously over the giant solitaire but wearing more a girlhood yellow band from which dangles a much-kissed cross.

And you have heard her say that she wants to be just a bride, not a star; and like a child announcing she is big enough to cross the street, "I'm twenty-six years old." And you wonder.

Oh, the days and nights are gay as confetti. And there are galas and fireworks ahead, a ballet by Dali, the opera, balls, the Riviera, the flower-sweet wind from Genoa, thousands of bottles of snow-chilled champagne, Verbena red as blood, the solemnity of the Pontifical Mass, the white yachts, the fairy-tale outlines.

So you wonder.

Labrador Speeds to Rescue of Ice-Bound Sealers

Canada's largest and most modern ice-breaker, HMCS Labrador, speeding to rescue four Norwegian sealing ships trapped in ice packs off southeast Greenland, was expected to reach them today. The Norwegian government asked Canada for help. It is believed ships are trapped with a valuable cargo of seals and it is hoped Labrador, which is equipped with a helicopter, will be able to free them.—(CPC)

'Liberals Sunk, Socialism Unwanted'

By PETER BRUTON
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Premier W. A. C. Bennett yesterday wrote off the Liberal party as a political force in the province and said B.C. had returned to a two-party system — CCF socialism and the Social Credit free enterprise movement.

This was obvious, he said, in the light of the appeal by Liberal leader Arthur Laing calling for a merger between the Liberals and CCF.

"The interesting thing about the Liberal convention—apart from the decision to retain the present leader, about which we are, of course, most pleased — was the frank appeal for support directed not to the Liberals who have left the party during the past four years but to the socialists," said the premier in a prepared statement.

"The Liberals appear ready to go into coalition again," the statement continued. "Anything for support."

"With the return of the CCF to militant socialism under Mr. Strachan it appears, with the virtual disappearance of the Liberals as a provincial party, that we have now seen the two-political movement system restored—the CCF Socialist party and the Social Credit genuine free enterprise movement are, the intact political alternatives in this province today," concluded the premier's statement.

The premier told newsmen that it was no coincidence that both the CCF and Liberal parties had held conventions in Vancouver at the same time.

"I'm only amazed that they didn't hold the conventions in the same hall," he said. "The little rump group of Liberals . . . openly asked the CCF to join them."

He said there was no room in the province for socialism as Social Credit was introducing "the benifits of social reform with all the benifits of free enterprise at the same time."

Premier Bennett also said he was indebted to Mr. Laing for a statement that the premier was like the skipper at the head of his ship of state—"all sail and no anchor."

"That's exactly right," grinned the premier. "The anchor has been dragging in this province.

"We are now in full sail under the policies of the Social Credit government. We lifted the Liberal anchor that was around the neck of the province and the sails are out," he said.

Premier Denies Webster's Charge

Charge that the Social Credit administration was guilty of "scandalous patronage" was labelled "completely untrue" by Premier W. A. C. Bennett yesterday.

The charge was made Friday by Arnold Webster, former CCF leader, in addressing the annual CCF convention in Vancouver.

Referring to Mr. Webster's statement, the premier said all government contracts were called by tender and all public bulsiness was open and above board.

Truth About Cancer

Every Conceivable Cause Exhaustively Investigated

basic riddle and across the world hundreds of thousands of scientific workers and observers are seeking the answer to it.

A great many factors have come under suspicion over the years, and each has been painstakingly investigated. None has been specifically convicted but a little more has been learned as each trail has been run down.

Diet has been under suspicion from time to time. Yet two neighboring families may eat precisely the same foods over the years; each drinks the same water. One family may go free from cancer through the generations; the other may show a heavy proportion of malignant disease through corresponding generations.

Meat-eating has been condemned by vegetarians. Yet vegetarians die of cancer while their meat-eating neighbors go on triumphantly to threaten the century mark.

Alcohol might seem a logical culprit but a great many alcoholics survive their excesses to live to a ripe old age while their abstaining fellow-citizens develop cancer.

Many chemicals have come under suspicion. Certain aniline dyes, if applied to the skin often enough and long enough, do give rise to skin cancer in the irritated area. Tars cause cancer in the skin of mice if painted on the skin often enough. But our forefathers had cancer long before these substances were isolated chemically.

Other chemicals have been held up by quacks over the years, either as the cause of cancer or as the antidote to it. Just now a theory is being energetically advanced that sodium in the diet is the villain and potassium the infallible antidote.

Sodium and potassium, in their various chemical combinations, are found in meat, in vegetables, in milk, in sea foods and in fruits. We take in an appreciable quantity, one way or another, each day we live.

The body absorbs precisely what it needs of each and rejects the rest. Without sodium of any kind we die in short order. Without potassium we die with equal certainty. Both the tissue cells and the blood stream must have sodium and potassium in precise quantities for our health. Any excess is promptly excreted in the urine, in perspiration and so on.

In certain forms of heart disease, in high blood pressure and in kidney disease physicians restrict the intake of table salt, which is sodium chloride. The body's machinery for getting rid of it is damaged and the tissues fill with fluid if it is taken in excess of what can be handled.

Following major operations and in certain other diseases the body's potassium intake falls below normal because a normal diet cannot be eaten. In such conditions physicians follow the quantities of potassium with infinite care. If the level falls, potassium is promptly given by vein.

We can tolerate a low level of potassium for a time; a high level is extremely dangerous, especially to the heart. The greatest care is always exercised that too much is not given.

The chemistry of sodium and potassium, then, is thoroughly known to the modern physician and surgeon. Neither has any curtive effect on malignancy that modern science has been able to detect.

The results claimed by charlatans do not stand up to investigation. There is some evidence that potassium artificially added to the diet may speed up the growth of certain tumors.

Investigation at present is being pursued along many lines. The hormones and enzymes, the complex chemicals that are elaborated by our glands, are being looked into with particular zeal.

Snice the increase in cancer is more marked in modern cities than in country areas, the matter of pollution of air is under investigation. There can be no doubt at all that we are breathing in each day in heavy quantities a number of irritants that are doing us no good.

No urban community as yet has pursued for a worthwhile period a firm program of air purification. The first city to insist firmly that its air be unpolluted so far as possible, to stick to its program for ten years, may be able to show us something of interest.

In the meantime scientists and a host of lay supporters intend to pursue the matter to its end. Insulin came to protect the diabetic and to prolong his life because a host of trained workers, in dozens of cities, worked without ceasing until the answer was found.

In the same way the answer will be found to the riddle of cancer; what happens to that first cell to go wrong? How does it come to differ from its neighbors, how does it manage to split its nucleus, how does it multiply, how does it acquire the ability to migrate?

When we know the answer to these questions we will know the basic cause of malignancy and the cure will be close behind. Your help is needed in the quest.

Garden Notes

'Everlastings' Easily Grown

By M.V. CHESNUT, FRHS

So-called "everlastings" are of immense value for home decoration during the winter months. Tastefully arranged in vases, or better still, in "rustic" wooden boxes or baskets of moss, they make a charming picture in a season when fresh flowers are not available.

These flowers are not at all difficult, and can be grown easily in any home garden. A short row, perhaps in the vegetable garden, will supply enough dried flowers to keep the household supplied all winter with bouquets.

NO NICKNAME

Probably the best known of the everlastings is Helichrysum bracteatum — it doesn't seem to have any English nickname—growing to about three feet in height. In July it bears a great profusion of double daisy-like flowers with stiff, papery petals in a wide range of colors. The seed may be sown any time this month in a seedbed of rather sandy soil, and the young plants thinned or transplanted to stand 12 inches apart.

The flowers to be saved for winter use should be cut just before they are fully open, tied into bunches, and hung head downward in a cool, airy place to dry—not in the sun, or the petals will be bleached.

ORNAMENTAL PODS

Honesty (Lunaria annua) is grown for the sake of its ornamental seed pods which, when stripped to show the silvery centre partition, look handsome in an arrangement of mixed flowers. I suppose it is these silvery discs which give rise to the plant's other nickname, St. Peter's Pence.

Honesty is a most accommodating plant, and will grow in any kind of soil, in full sunshine or shade, and even under trees. The flowers are white, crimson, and purple—beautiful enough to justify growing the plant even without the ornamental seed pods.

The plant is technically an annual, but it is best treated as a biennial, sowing the seed in May or June, thinning the seedlings to stand nine inches apart, and allowing them to stand through the winter to bloom the following May. The stems are cut when the seed pods are fully dried and ripened, and when the outer covering will strip off easily.

Statice, acrolinium, and rhodanthe are all everlastings which may be sown now, and picked when fully opened. The drying off process is the same as with the helichrsums.

Statice or sea lavender is, to my mind, the best of the everlastings, with feathery plumes of pink, mauve, blue or purple. There is a yellow variety which has me baffled, as I have had very poor luck with it. It can be grown here, as I have seen its yellow plumes on sale in the shops and market stalls, but while the other colors grow well for me, I can't seem to make friends with the yellow ones.

NATIVE HOME

The native home of these plants lies in the Mediterranean basin — unco-operative yellow statice is from Algeria—hence they succeed best under somewhat dry conditions and in well-drained light loam soil.

Acrolinium and rhodanthe both bear pink single daisies with a yellow eye. Acrolinium is the easiest to grow, but isn't as big as the rhodanthe. Both like a light, fertile soil with a warm, sheltered position out of the wind.

Inco metals at work in Canada

We ordinarily speak of automobile bumpers, grilles, hubcaps and bright metal trim as being "chrome-plated". Actually, these parts are plated with both nickel and chromium—a heavy coating of nickel covered with a thin layer of chromium. All the nickel used for plating auto parts and other products of Canadian industry is Inco nickel—mined, milled, smelted and refined in Canada.

Almost two million pounds of INCO Nickel will help brighten Canadian cars in 1956

. . . more jobs for Canadians

All the bright metal plating on Canadian cars is Inco nickel covered with a thin layer of chromium. Production of this nickel and the plating of metal parts for automobiles helps make jobs for thousands of Canadian men and women.

1. Nickel-bearing ores are mined by Inco workmen. The ore is milled and smelted at Inco's plants near Sudbury, Ontario. Final refining is done at Inco's plant in Port Colborne, Ontario. About 18,000 men and women work for Inco in Canada.
2. Inco nickel is sold to Canadian companies where Canadian workmen produce anodes for the plating trade.
3. These anodes are used by other companies for electroplating bumpers, grilles, hub caps and other bright metal parts for cars—thus helping to provide employment for more Canadians.

This year, almost 2 million pounds of Inco nickel will be used for plating on Canadian cars. In addition, Inco nickel is used by Canadian industries to manufacture hundreds of useful products.

Israelis Charge Arabs

Roving Suicide Squads Cause Night of Terror

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel charged today that roving Arab suicide squads under Egyptian army orders inflicted a third straight "night of terror" on Israeli settlers Monday.

Border clashes between Israeli and Egyptian troops in the Gaza strip were reported continuing. These began last Wednesday. The charge of continuing terrorism that took a reported death toll of more than 300 persons.

First official reports said more than 100 rebels were killed in the bloody four-day battle near the Nemencha mountain town of Djeurf.

The French losses were approximately 30 killed and 40 wounded—the highest single-battle casualty toll for the French since the begining of the Algerian fighting.

A second major battle raged in western Algeria, in woods near Nedormah, some 70 miles west of Oran near the Moroccan border.

Preliminary reports from the western fighting said the rebels lost at least 60 killed and 40 wounded. French losses were set at seven dead and five wounded.

[illegible] airborne troops tightened a deadly noose around the scattered remnants of the routed rebel unit. More than 100 insurgents were believed trapped in mountain grottos.

RABAT, Morocco (UP)—An estimated 8,000 Frenchmen and Moslems went on strike Monday at seven American bases in Morocco, including three Strategic Air Command fields.

the Middle East and world capitals gravely awaited the opening later in the day of the top-level United Nations effort to arrange a long-range peace between Arabs and Israelis. The peace mission is headed by UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. It was initiated in the UN Security Council by the U.S. delegation at the direction of President Eisenhower and now has the added endorsement of the Pope.

The Pope gave it his blessing when Hammarskjold visited him at the Vatican Monday en route to his entry into the Middle East at Beirut, Lebanon.

Hammarskjold arrived in the Lebanese capital early today. He told reporters it would be discourteous for him to give his views on the situation now.

"Something must be brought up with the governments concerned first," he said.

Hammarskjold will begin his talks in Cairo. He is scheduled to arrive at Israel's Lydda airport from Beirut later today to pick up Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian chief of the UN Palestine truce mission.

Both men will fly on to Cairo to see Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser. Conferences will be held in the other Arab capitals and Jerusalem next week.

Hill-Hoppers Hunt Rebels

Sidewalk Superintendent

A Bear for Punishment

BRESCIA, Italy (BUP) — An Italian woodchopper may be some time getting over a job he did for a most unusual foreman—a big brown bear.

Woodsman Lionello Troggio says he followed some tracks in the woods and found they ended at a big brown bear. He tiptoed some distance away and started chopping—until he happened to look around and saw the bear peeping at him.

Troggio was afraid to turn his back and run, for fear the bear would chase him. He just kept chopping—but the bear watched, apparently waiting for him to finish his work.

Troggio swung his axe for five solid hours while the bear watched. Finally, the woodsman couldn't stand it any longer. He dropped his axe and ran.

The bear must have been just a sidewalk superintendent. He turned and walked away—probably looking for other excitement.

Further Negotiation Set Over Pay Claim

Esquimalt council will hold further negotiations with Esquimalt Municipal Employees' Union over pay increases for some outside workers.

In a request for a further discussion which was read at the council meeting last night, the union said it was satisfied with all but two or three of the council's offers.

The council decided to hold a public hearing on the rezoning of a lot on Head street from a residential to a retail classification.

Bakers Win Work Week Of 35 Hours

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nearly 450 B.C. bakery workers Monday claimed they are the first manufacturing group in Canada to establish a 35-hour working week, even though it will be the fall of 1957 before they get it.

They won it in a two-year contract settlement with eight major bakeries in Vancouver and Nanaimo. In addition they will get a $5-a-week boost by June 1, 1957, raising their basic weekly pay to $79.61 for men and $62.79 for women.

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates In Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules.

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser. Polident, at your drug counter.

Why Not Canadian Books?

REFERENCE at the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation convention in Kamloops to the origin of many of the textbooks used in the provincial public schools revives a question which needs further looking to. Delegates were critical of the policy of importing textbooks written and printed in the United States; and it was officially confirmed that the proportion of American books which British Columbia students are required to use runs to about 40 per cent.

The departmental explanation given to the convention was that the quality of books required for junior and senior matriculation cannot be obtained in Canada at reasonable prices. That may be satisfactory as an explanation, but not as a reason why B.C. students should have to turn to foreign books for information and instruction. Canada has a flourishing industry in book printing and publishing, able to compete on profitable terms with publishing houses outside. Why can it not compete in the production of school books? Once certain publications have been adopted by the education authorities there could be no more assured market for the publishers.

As for the writing of the books, surely Canada has educationists as well qualified as those of any other country to produce reference material suited to Canadian requirements. We are assured so vehemently and so often of the high standard of education in this country and of the determination to give the public schools nothing but the best, that it is curious to find 40 per cent of "the best" originating elsewhere. For all the similarity of the two countries, the education systems of Canada and the United States are not identical, and in some respects one would not wish them to be. Making deletions from and changes in imported textbooks to conform to Canadian standards is not the same as giving the schools reference material written by Canadians for Canadians.

Noted Transportation Figure

THE sudden passing at Nanaimo on Friday of Mr. Walter S. Miles removes one of the most highly respected transportation officials of Victoria. Although he had held many community offices and proved a devoted worker in each, the late Mr. Miles had had 45 years of experience in maritime circles and knew the port of Victoria as few other men do. One of the most significant of his many contributions to the welfare of this community was his eager drive for an improvement of port facilities for coastwise and deepsea shipping. Early and late Mr. Miles gave his energies to this task, often under baffling conditions.

He was associated for years with one of the pioneer towboat firms in this port. As a lad of 15 he joined transportation row, to develop the interest which was to keep him wholly occupied during the next 45 years. He was associated with the former nine-point plan for the development of the port of Victoria, and had much to do with the origination of its sound features dealing with the inner harbor and the ocean terminals. Although the scheme was not accepted by the federal government at the time, a number of its recommendations have since been implemented.

Whether it was transportation, port development, community service or anything else, Mr. Miles threw his marked abilities into the task with unselfish disregard of himself. He was a lifelong member of the congregation of Christ Church Cathedral, where he acted as sideman and in other lay capacities through many years. There can be few Victorians who have gained a wider list of acquaintances and friends up and down the Pacific Coast in marine and transportation circles. His end came with dramatic suddenness, and that has intensified the shock and the regret over his passing. The sympathies of the community will go now to his widow and members of his family.

Bowing Out with Credit

AS far as Victoria is concerned the ice hockey season is now finished, and perhaps just as well. Playoffs are inordinately prolonged nowadays, with their consequent effect on attendance. There can be too much even of a good thing, and every sport should keep within bounds. There will be regret of course that the Cougars did not reach the final stage but they bow out with every credit. Their performance in the latter half of the season exceeded their paper form and they gave patrons full value for their money. That is a worthwhile criterion in the realm of professional entertainment.

Sport is not viewed simply an entertainment as often as it might be, the competitive angle tending to push this aspect into the background. It was aptly put in perspective by the sports editor of this newspaper recently when he pointed out that every game was a show in itself. The result, while important both to the club and to its supporters, is really secondary to the entertainment being provided. No one can complain that the Cougars did not fill the bill in this respect. The players retained a high degree of enthusiasm all through what inevitably is a long and tiring period, a factor not always fully appreciated by spectators. Competitively next year may tell a different story; meantime the club warrants the back-pat that says: "Well done."

They Have a Good Time

THIS is the time of the year when sea lovers are busy readying their boats for the coming season and among the most active in this way are the local Rainbow Sea Cadets. These boys belong to the oldest group of its kind in all of Canada and they are a fine example of youthful endeavor.

Some of the sea cadets go on to join the navy when old enough—the corps is a fine recruiting source in this connection and cadet training assures early advancement in a naval career—but that is incidental. Sea cadet membership means the enjoyment of healthful and lively recreation, full of interest and pleasant experience. The boys have a good time as well as learning things that will stand them in good stead later on.

Parents with young teen-agers at a loose end for something to enthuse over could with advantage direct them to the Rainbow Sea Cadet Corps, an organization that fills its members with pride and gives them added zest of life.

Franco Again Respectable

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THERE came a time during the Second World War when Cordell Hull, irritated by the relationship of the Franco government in Spain to the Axis powers, said "Those who are not with us are against us."

But Franco kept on leaning toward the Axis without actually falling off the fence. If the Germans had won and stayed on in France, he was in a position to play ball with them. When the Allies won, he was in bad odor.

One of the first things the United Nations did was to ostracize Franco Spain. "Quarantining," they called it. Franco kept plowing his own row. He began to slough off some of the worst aspects of totalitarianism. Prices were lower than in most war-ravaged countries, and an especial effort was made to please foreign visitors. He began to get a better press.

Then the Russians, who have so often acted in such a way as to cause what they didn't want to cause, began to reveal their true international objectives. They had supported the losers in the Spanish civil war, and they hated Franco. That made him look better to others.

As the cold war developed and plans for the defence of Western Europe began to take shape, the United States began to woo Franco, who occupied a strategic back area. Britain and France remained cool toward him. But they were at least passive while the United States made a military aid-for-bases deal with Spain, and sponsored her entry into the UN.

Now Spain has come forward with celerity to help ease the colonial situation in North Africa, agreeing to give Spanish Morocco the same terms for autonomy which the French Moroccans had exacted from France only through bloody rebellion.

It would be wrong to assume that either power is granting complete independence. The French call it "independence within interdependence," which will depend upon ultimate working arrangements for its success or failure.

Nevertheless, it marks a turn of the Spanish wheel toward assumption of political responsibility in her relations with the free world, and a vast change from the days when Secretary Hull was so irritated.

Because the United States was the first of the western nations to admit the possibility of doing business wih post-revolutionary Spain, and because Spain in repaying a large proportion of the mutual aid money advanced her, an atmosphere of sound co-operation is growing up between the two nations. Franco isn't running much of a democracy, but his government is going through a recognizable and not unwelcome evolution.

Now Franco's foreign minister is visiting Washington, receiving the respect due a worthy ally. The new atmosphere is not merely important to the front presented by the Allies in Europe. Latin America still has close spiritual ties with Spain, and the turn of the wheel from "not with us" to "with us" will have its effect there, too.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE human eye, you might suppose, is the same no matter in whose head it is fixed. True enough, the proverb says four eyes are better than two; yet each set looking on a clear night across the strait would record the same view, the lights of Port Angeles.

Let two of us gaze up together at Captain Vancouver on his lonely pinnacle and he would not seem markedly different.

Beyond this sort of identification, however, the eye, or more correctly the image stamped on the mind, plays queer tricks.

Two witnesses to the same accident can relate quite separate accounts, both honestly. In the recent Vancouver bank hold-up a variety of versions showed how detail can be confused, or noted differently.

And of course when it comes to describing other places neither the eye nor the mind is to be trusted.

Thus it is that Victoria on one and the same day may be cited as a land of English crumpets and tea or of American hot dogs and hamburgers. It depends on what the visitor sees or, perhaps, the guide who shows him around.

* * *

Eyes again, or mind, or both.

I always remember the two expatriate Irishmen who returned, not together but at about the same time, to their native heath.

One afterwards wrote condemning Erin's slums and censorship and infanticide, and answered his own query about how good a land was it to live in by saying: "How could it be?"

Yet back on this continent the other visitor was extolling Ireland's charms and naming it the best country in the world for peace, prosperity and everything.

Both had been in Ireland, without a doubt, even if their eyes seemed to deny this. They weren't viewing the same places or looking at them with the same kind of vision, however. That much was obvious.

The human eye, in this case, was dissimilar. Yet each would come back convinced he had seen Ireland.

And if they had exchanged eyes while there the result would have been the same.

* * *

This is what makes dubious even a scrupulous account of a visit to another place.

You could blindfold a tourist when he steps ashore at the CPR dock and take him to Beacon Hill Park, and then free his eyes only when the tallyho is passing. Possibly he'd go home thinking he'd seen the Vienna woods.

You could instead shepherd him up one side of Government Street for half-a-dozen blocks only, and if he saw no more of Victoria than that he might imagine he had been in Edinburgh.

If he were whisked at night in a taxi to Fisgard Street, of course, his head down en route, he'd never believe he was in the fabled town of dowagers and Tudor inns.

His eyes, seeing correctly, would yet betray him.

Yet loose-footed writers are forever walking blithely into foreign parts, taking a flying look at leafy lanes, pubs, old men's homes and ornate cathedrals, and then writing profoundly on the state of the visited nation.

Gall, naturally, but allied to eyes which not being all-seeing, and to a mind which not being all-knowing, let them down badly.

Reports from Ottawa

A WRANGLE in the Commons arising out of opposition demands to see government correspondence on certain public matters ended inconclusively a fortnight ago. But a new development this week will force both the Conservatives and the government to put up or shut up.

Right now it's not clear whether Immigration Minister Pickersgill twisted the intent of parliamentary rules in order to refuse information the opposition demanded, or whether he genuinely wants to air the matters in question.

It's also not clear whether the Conservatives are more interested in protesting the minister's alleged duplicity, or in getting the information requested.

Without taking sides in the issue, Speaker Rene Beaudoin has adroitly set up a situation in which both parties must do one of two things. One choice will prove their sincerity, and the other will make it apparent that they are only playing politics.

* * *

The issue arose when Pickersgill dredged up a rule which hadn't been used for 18 years, and applied it to a CCF motion calling on him to produce all documents dealing with the expropriation of certain Indian lands near Montreal. The rule allowed Pickersgill to have the motion transferred to a list of other motions awaiting debate.

The Tories cried "Foul!" Two of them, Davie Fulton and John Diefenbaker, charged that Pickersgill merely wanted to bury the motion, and didn't want a debate at all. They pointed out that only one day remained for debating private members' motions, following which such motions would be dropped from the Commons' agenda.

That day came and passed, and the question of the Indian lands was not debated. Instead, the House discussed setting up a coast guard. However, it may be significant that nobody got up and moved that the House skip the coast guard and every other motion preceding the Indian lands motion. Any MP could have done so, and if the government were sincere in its desire for debate it would have had to agree. But nobody called Pickersgill's bluff—if bluff it was.

* * *

According to a standing rule, this week all undebated private members' motions will be washed out for the remainder of the session. Mondays, which heretofore have been devoted to their debate, will henceforth be given over to government business.

However, Speaker Beaudoin has decided that the rule requiring him to drop undebated motions from the agenda does not apply to motions for the production of papers which are transferred to debatable motions. He has issued orders to keep the Indian lands motion before the House.

The effect will be that any MP may move to put aside the ordinary business of the day and debate this motion. If the Tories don't so move, it will indicate they'd rather make political capital out of Pickersgill's record in this matter. If they do move to debate the Indian lands question, the government will have to make time available or stand convicted of transferring the motion just to get rid of it.

This is Beaudoin's answer to Tory charges that he was interpreting the rules in favor of the government and to "stultify" Parliament. The record of this wrangle shows he was following the rules impartially. He would not have been had he followed the advice of Fulton and Diefenbaker. They urged him to rule against Pickersgill, and in effect refuse to honor one of the House's own rules which the minister was entirely within his rights in invoking.

The Packsack

Crazy but It Pays

By GREGORY CLARK

MODERN art has got most of us pretty confused. But we are probably not more confused than the artists themselves.

According to one school of thought, artists not only don't know what they are doing: They aren't supposed to know. They are creatures apart from us mortals, equipped with a special psyche, or sensitivity, by means of which they reflect in paint, music, stone, words and other media the spirit of the time in which they live.

Sometimes it is heroic, sometimes religious or spiritual, sometimes sensual or sensuous or merely beautiful. Our present era being pretty confused spiritually, intellectually and politically, it stands to reason that all the poor artists can reflect is confusion.

* * *

At a recent exhibition, I asked an artist with whom I had gone to school what he meant by the fantastic non-representational painting he had on view, and which was causing lively interest.

"I don't know what the heck I meant," he confessed. "All I did was paint it. And it has caused considerable interest."

"Among whom? I enquired.

"You, for one," said he.

"But my only interest," I protested, "is in trying to find out why you painted it."

"Then why," retorted the artist, "does anybody do anything? Why do all these people do whatever it is they do?"

"In order to live," I said. "To make enough to live."

"Exactly," said the artist, who then informed me that his picture had sold for $600.

* * *

This isn't as confused, then, as it might appear. Our moderns are selling their paintings, music, words, carvings.

Somebody bought the Parthenon when it was built. Greece was in the ecstasy of a great expansion of the human mind and soul: the Parthenon reflected it. Somebody bought it, paid for it. In the middle ages, as the darkness of the preceding centuries fled back, the builders of the cathedrals reflected the rising joy; the painters, sculptors, poets found no trouble in selling their masterpieces to the waiting princes.

Do you suppose we are waiting for a confusion as impenetrable as the moderns in art are reflecting, not without profit?

Justice in Indonesia

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

IN WRITING in my last column of the Jungschlager case—that of the Dutchman on trial in Indonesia—I feel on reflection that I failed to get to the heart of the matter. This, as I see it, is the extreme difficulty of young republics, suddenly set free of colonial rule, to adjust themselves to the standards set by centuries of developments in Western law.

Justice, I am afraid, is rarely more than approximate. George Eliot in "Romola" stated that "justice . . . is not without us as a fact, it is within us as a great yearning." The yearning, though, is there, and its expression, over centuries of evolution, has created those safeguards which are cherished by all civilized men.

In young and primitive societies justice is always "rough." It was in our own, as we were opening the west, when there was little scrupulosity regarding rules of evidence, or of the paraphernalia that surrounds court procedures, or of the concept that it is better that the guilty escape than that the just be condemned.

* * *

As I, and others better qualified than I, have followed the Jungschlager case, it seems clear that the judges are struggling between the rules governing Western criminal procedures and their more instinctive inclinations. Even though they are all too obviously convinced in advance of the man's guilt, they have drawn the case out, hesitating to profounce judgment, which is, I think, evidence of a desire to observe Western principles of law and not to slip into the lynch law of the so-called people's tribunals, as some countries with long experience of impartial justice have done, thereby taking an enormous step backwards.

The Javanese court is, in short, trying in some measure to show respect for procedures that, to all Javanese, must appear as newfangled, and to many as incomprehensible. It is out "to get its man" without realizing clearly that such a mental attitude by a judge is incompatible with impartial justice.

But in this division of feeling there is still hope for a break in this trial, which will make the verdict—whatever it may be—acceptable in the eyes of the West.

* * *

Jungschlager was, for some time during Dutch administration of the Islands, chief of the Dutch intelligence service. He remained in the Javanese republic. Obviously he must have had numerous secret connections throughout the Islands. To many Javanese, and to the judge himself, this appears prima facie evidence that he continued to use them, to the damage of the republic. There seems to have been no pertinent, reliable evidence that he did so. But the Javanese mind will doubtless argue that lack of evidence only shows the man's cleverness, of which they deem themselves to have been past and probably continuing victims.

But judgment by such argument is not justice.

The sudden cessation of long-established foreign rule is very likely to lead to complete anarchy, and the anarchy to produce conditions favorable to another foreign rule. For a time it looked as though this might happen in Indonesia.

But it has not, and the mere fact that the trial of a Dutch national there should not end promptly with a flat declaration of "guilty" is encouraging to all of us who pray for a really free Indonesia, which means, of course, one in which even a Dutchman can expect that measure of justice that would be meted to an Indonesian in a Netherlands court.

* * *

The Communists have condemned Jungschlager out of hand. But they do not wish the Indonesian republic to demonstrate its capacity to govern with justice. They wish the exact opposite.

The concern of Indonesia's real friends is to see her independence prosper, and to be able to say, "you see, after all, justice was done, and our faith justified."

Letters to the Editor

Life of Misery

Referring to Elizabeth Smith's recent letter about the so-called aviary in Beacon Hill park, I would like to say that I agree with her that this dark, dreary bird prison is a disgrace to Victoria.

Why cannot the humane societies and the service clubs (whose service might surely for once be stretched to include others besides human beings) get together and see that something is done, and done soon, to provide these birds with a proper aviary where they can have light and sun and shade [illegible] but it is a crime to keep them in their present environment.

Victoria tries to attract tourists, but any humane people who visit the park must get a very bad impression of Victoria citizens, who will spend money on so many other things but who leave these poor birds to endure a life of misery.

Not Good Enough

The government has seen fit to earmark a few million dollars to people who have already adequate incomes, compared with our senior citizens who have only asked for a decent place to live and at least enough to eat, neither of which most of them have at present.

Surely they deserve, and have a right to expect from the government, not private citizens, who have done more than their bit to relieve the need. They have borne their crosses and losses, educated their families with no government aid, then given their sons, to defend the country. Do they deserve to be pushed back in some spot where they haven't the strength to walk to town, nor the money to ride?

Is it any wonder so many are becoming senile—living in one small room—many alone, cold and hungry? If all the money already spent, and the inadequate housing still unsolved, had been put in one project, there would be no problem now. The idea of a $15 a month plan is an impossible idea, if it didn't work out, would Victoria have another Arenaway white elephant?

Our "new citizens" are being taken care of. Those who have violated our laws are clothed, fed, and housed adequately, and still not the right answer to, and for the senior citizens, who are God-fearing and "law-abiding." Is their plight good enough?

Suggests Plebiscite

May I suggest a very direct approach to the store's closing question and one that will give once and for all an honest and complete opinion from all merchants concerned. I suggest that the City Council direct a questionaire to retail trades licence holders within the jurisdictional limits of the City of Victoria.

I suggest that the questionaire be sent to only those retail licence holders who, through the effect of the Weekly Half-Day Holiday Act, are now required to close their doors or cease their sales to the retail trade at 1.00 p.m. on Wednesdays. I further suggest that the questionaire be simple in form, and that it contain no persuassive or leading arguments for or against the questions asked.

I suggest the questions be three in number and listed as follows: (1) Are you in favor of the Wednesday half-day closing now in effect? (2) Are you in favor of closing all day Wednesday? (3) Are you in favor of opening six full days a week?

Answers should be marked 1, 2, 3, in preference. Questionaires should be returned to the City Clerk and upon his tabulation the results made public through the press.

May I stress most earnestly that all retail traders in the category above mentioned be given a questionaire, be they located down town or in the districts. From the answers to such a questionaire you will learn the true wishes of the merchants, without collusion or persuasion.

Merchant.

Buttle Lake's Will J. Reid Dies of Heart Seizure

Will J. Reid, the champion of conversation of Buttle lake, died Sunday in a private plane at the Kansas City Municipal airport Sunday following a heart attack.

The 66-year-old millionaire sportsman was one of the leading opponents to the damming and consequent flooding of Buttle lake by the B.C. Power Commissin. He owned a handsome private lodge on the lake, which was expropriated by the BCPC.

Mr. Reid was often attacked by proponents of the Buttle lake damming as wishing to preserve Buttle lake as his own private bailiwick. But what was not generally known was that Mr. Reil was a trile conservationist and was one of the prime movers in the success-ful campaign to save Cathedral Grove timber on Vancouver Island from the logger's axe.

He was president of Ducks Unlimited Foundation and had gone to Kansas City to attend the annual meeting of that conservation organization.

He was active in Boy Scout work.

Mr. Reid was president of Hancock Oil from its founding in 1922 until 1953, when he moved up to the board chairmanship.

He was born in St. Thomas, N.D., and later lived in Canada, where he attended the University of Alberta at Edmonton.

Surviving are his widow, Ella Hancock Reid, and a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Reid Moore of Long Beach.

Sidney Colony Visited

SIDNEY — Ruy San-Romao, director of the Portuguese Bureau of Emigration, visited 12 of his countrymen in Sidney Sunday afternoon.

He is conferring with local immigration officials with regard to further placements in this area.

Mr. San-Romao is pleased with the treatment accorded the immigrants in British Columbia.

"Most of them are placed on farms in Eastern Canada, but they soon hear about the better climate and higher wages to be found in B.C. and drift westward," he said.

"Last year there were 10 Portuguese in British Columbia. By the end of 1956 we expect there will be a thousand," he added.

When his Canadian trip is finished, Mr. San-Romao will visit other immigrants in Central and South America.

The Sidney meeting was arranged by Harry Tobin, officer in charge of the Sidney immigration office.

Business Appointee Urged For Capital Commission

A businessman or professional man should be one of the five provincial appointees to the Capital District Improvement Commission, civic affairs group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce decided yesterday.

The group recommended to chamber directors that a committee be struck to recommend suitable persons.

One or two men would be recommended to the government, not as chamber representatives, but as "having first-hand knowledge and interest in the economic and social welfare of the city and district."

ACTIVE INTEREST

When some members opposed making recommendations, Tom Denny said: "Putting this forward shows an active interest. There is always the risk of having an academic commission."

City council decisions to enforce traffic laws and study parking problems means Victoria is "on our way" to finding a proper solution, said Ernie Peden.

"I sure hope council doesn't let this thing hog down," he said. "Time is slipping away but [illegible]"

Ken McAllister urged individual businessmen to support the drive for a fireproof wing at the Art Gallery. He said it will cost $35,000 to $45,000 and will "add a lot to the tourist and cultural value of Victoria."

Civic affairs group also passed a motion of "congratulations" to radio station CKDA for its victory in the fight for a Victoria television licence.

Canadian statistics show that 19,694 Canadians died of cancer in 1954. This is almost one in every six deaths.

Newfangled Zips and All

Canada Sets Standard For Royal Navy Dress

LONDON (CP)—The old salts of the Royal Navy, forsaking tradition for comfort, are changing their uniforms to conform to Canadian standards.

After four years of study—and probably many a protest by grizzled petty officers—the old-style jumper and bell-bottom trousers should be remodelled along the lines of Canadian square rig. There'll even be such newfangled things as slide fasteners.

The main change will be that the jersey will slip on like a coat, instead of having to be "wriggled" into over the head, a century-old custom that may have helped sailors perfect their extensive vocabulary. There will be zips on trousers and jumpers, side and hip pockets will be added and a smoother cloth will replace the old shaggy material.

DUKE IMPRESSED

The lower decks can probably thank the Duke of Edinburgh [illegible]

The story goes that the duke, an old navy man, came back from the 1951 royal tour of Canada all admiration for the Canadian rig. "Our sailors must have zips," he told his uncle, Admiral Earl Mountbatten, then fourth sea lord. Breezy Lord Louis summoned a couple of Canadian sailors in London, Leading Seaman P. W. Cowper of Howick, Que., and Robert Maddocks of Montreal, staged an informal fashion parade and liked what he saw.

Mountbatten, now first sea lord, passed the idea to the admiralty board, which now has announced "certain changes" in what the well-dressed rating will wear.

For one thing, a smoother serge will be used. This is called the "diagonal" cloth, probably because of the weave.

The new uniforms, which will add something further to that traditional "something about a sailor," will probably come into general use late this year. In addition, naval personnel will wear white caps throughout the year instead of wearing blue caps in winter.

The navy's announcement has caused little stir so far. The only comment has come from the Manchester Guardian, which says: "Englishmen will be glad that this latest change in naval tradition owes nothing to the United States Navy."

TODAY, THIRTEEN YEARS LATER, from all major newscapitals, from every unexpected newsfront, from all the far-flung corners of the globe, TIME still reports the great and small events that shape the news of our time. News of Canada's boom ... the hopes for peace ... diplomatic coups ... the race into space ... new cures for illness ... religious revivals ... and the antics and ad libs of artists, sportsmen, tycoons and pundits of every breed.

VIEWS OF SPORT

By Red Smith

NEW YORK—It is, of course, an old established and accepted principle that when an athlete signs a contract to compete for money he forfeits immediately his amateur standing. It is accepted, that is, in most circles outside of tennis, where Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall first agreed to join Jack Kramer's mercenaries, then changed their minds and hired out for another season as Australian amateurs. In swimming circles this would be called the Australian crawl.

Going a step farther, it is not unreasonable to declare that a boy who goes around openly soliciting employment in sports—like the Yankees' Frank Leja, say, who worked out with assorted baseball teams and shopped for a bonus—commits himself in a manner tantamount to signing a contract.

It is even possible to go along with the view that when a young man publicly announces his intention of turning pro in the near future, he is unfrocking himself as an amateur.

As far as the rules are concerned, there is no disposition here to take issue with the Amateur Athletic Union in connection with the bobbery recently kicked up over the amateur status of some basketball players. It is merely recommended that the AAU brass (pronounced "meatheads") find time soon to read and interpret their own rules, discover what their views are, and let one another in on the secret.

Birth of the Blues

This suggestion is offered without rancor from a position of almost inhumanly detached impartiality. There are, to be sure, some ideas here regarding the ideal disposition of cases involving basketball players, but they are not necessarily germane to the topic. The questions currently at issue are: What do the rules say? How were they applied in this instance?

An annual feature of the New York basketball season is an all-star game between teams recruited from colleges in the east and west for the benefit of The Herald-Tribune Fresh Air Fund. The squads originally selected for this year's game included 14 players who had been chosen to compete for places on the American Olympic team. This was done in co-operation with the Olympic committee and on the AAU's sanction.

Before a similar game in Kansas City, one of the players—Joe Holup, of George Washington—let it be known that he was no Olympic candidate because he had decided to play for pay with a team Abe Saperstein was recruiting to tour with the professional Harlem Globetrotters.

This raised the question whether he was disqualified by intention from amateur competition. The Missouri Valley district of the AAU ruled he was not, and he played in the Kansas City game. This was the same group that had thrown the whole AAU and practically the whole country into an uproar by deprofessionalizing Wes Santee, the miler, with a quick whitewash job some months ago, and coincidences like this are bad for AAU nerves.

The Higher Intelligence

For the New York game, Holup was dropped and a substitute added, but meanwhile there were announcements by the Globetrotters that five other members of the squad were going to join their tour. After some frenzied buck-passing between the Metropolitan AAU and the national body these five were "put on notice."

That is, they weren't declared professionals but they were assigned to Purgatory, or maybe Limbo, and thus rendered ineligible for the New York charity show. This action was based on a little-known rule that "a tryout by an athlete for a professional team or public solicitation of employment for gain" disqualifies him as an amateur.

None of these kids had signed a contract, tried out for any professional team ouside of college, publicly solicited employment or pledged allegiance to Saperstein. Along with, say, 1,000,000 other Americans, they had not formally denied that they might play for Abe.

On the eve of the New York game the AAU agreed to recertify as amateurs any kids who would make affidavit that they had not sanctioned use of their names by the Globetrotters and would not participate in the opening of the Trotters' tour the day after the Fresh Air Fund carnival.

Ordeal-by-Fun

Two kids signed such affidavits and played in Madison Square Garden. The others declined and remained ineligible. One who signed changed his mind and did play against the Globetrotters the next day. The other didn't and was left out of the tour for five games, though he has now joined the troupe.

Thus all those who were declared ineligible have actually turned pro since, and perhaps that gives belated support to the AAU action against them. As to the action itself, there's no quarrel here. But an organization with the AAU's God-given talent for bugging up the simplest decisions ought to protect itself by reading its own rule-book and applying the rules consistently all over.

When you get down to it, it is regrettable that there should have to be any rules governing amateurism, anyhow. By definition, an amateur is one who plays games for fun. The AAU is a police force batting athletes over the sconce and crying, "Get in there and enjoy yourself or I'll brain you!"

Executive Approves City XI For Summer Soccer League; Acceptance All But Assured

By JIM TANG

Barring the totally-unexpected, Victoria will be represented in the new summer soccer league after all. The club will again be known as Victoria United and George Eade, who gave up his sponsorship of the city's Coast Soccer League entry after the 1955-56 season, will be back as club president and sponsor.

Final decision on Eade's application will be made Thursday night when delegates of the four mainland clubs meet with the league executive but it is practically certain that the clubs will accept the unanimous recommendation of the executive that Victoria United be given a franchise.

Failure to post the required $1,500 entry fee before the deadline resulted in the four Mainland clubs rejecting an application by Victoria Strathconas several weeks ago. The Mainland clubs—St. Andrews, New Westminster Royals, Halecos and North Shore—decided to make it a four-team mainland league.

Since then, there have been reports that the league might reconsider if another Victoria application was received. Jock Hendry, who will run the league as secretary and manager, has always been in favor of a Victoria team and was in Victoria last Saturday to discuss the matter with Eade.

As a result, Eade sent a letter of application, together with the $1,500 entry fee, to the league executive. The executive met last night and unanimously decided to recommended to the four member clubs that Eade's application be accepted.

Hendry last night would only say that "it's up to the clubs" when asked if he thought Victoria was definitely in. However, it is unlikely that the clubs would go against the recommendation of the league executive.

President Bob Paton, vice-president Bill Findler, director George Reid and Hendry form the league executive.

If Victoria is accepted, the city team will certainly get a new deal which should assure the success of summer soccer here. Hendry said that the complete schedule would be drawn up before the season started and would be played as drawn.

GAMES A WEEK

Victoria would get one home game every week on whatever day is selected by the city club. It appears that Victoria games will be played Friday nights and the Vancouver clubs will appear here in turn.

"You would get the continuity that is so necessary and there should be no reason for any postponements with the season starting when it does," Hendry said.

Plans call for the season to open on May 21.

Eade will head Victoria United as president if the club is accepted. Jim Lackie, who is president of the Strathconas, will take an active part in the operation of the club. There will be few, if any, other changes. Willie Hamilton, the former Scottish star, will remain as coach and all players who have been with Strathconas are expected to be with United.

MOVE TO ARENA

Victoria Shamrocks will move into Memorial arena for a workout tonight at 7 p.m. All last year's players and others interested are invited to attend.

Prystai Injury 'Deliberate' Claims Angry Red Wing Boss

Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings meet at Montreal tonight in the fifth game of the Stanley Cup finals with charges and counter-charges almost obscuring the fact that Canadiens can win the prized trophy tonight.

They lead the series, 3-1, as a result of a 3-0 shutout in Detroit Sunday, a game which saw Jack Adams, general-manager of the Detroit club, charge that one of his players had been deliberately injured and the accused player threaten legal action.

PRYSTAI SIDELINED

Wings lost Metro Prystai for tonight's game when Montreal defenceman Tom Johnson swiped at the puck and his stick caught Prystai in the eye. Prystai was taken to hospital but it was expected he would be able to play if the Wings can extend the series to a sixth game.

"That Johnson deliberately speared him," Adams was reported to have said after the game. "It happened right in front of me. I couldn't help but see it."

Johnson immediately threatened to sue Adams for "defamation of character" but Montreal's general-manager, Frank Selke, is thought to have talked him out of plans for court action.

"As far as I'm concerned," Selke said, "the Canadians would like to keep sports out of the court-room. The Canadiens have never been involved in such a legal action and I don't think this is the time to start."

SELKE BLASTS BACK

Selke, however, had a few harsh words for the Wings. He said he was "surprised any man (Adams) blessed with as wonderful a hockey team should stoop to such tactics as accusing a man of deliberately trying to main another player."

"There's an old theory that the louder you squeal the less attention they pay to your own shortcomings. I don't intend to go popping off about anything. These are without a doubt the two finest hockey clubs in the world. If there are any differences to be settled, they should be settled on the ice in the manner in which the game is supposed to be played," Selke concluded.

Toe Blake, the usually mild-mannered Montreal coach, defended Johnson at once.

"Something should be done about that," he stated. "I don't think Johnson, or any other player, should have to take that kind of treatment.

Blake pointed his finger at Detroit's Gordie Howe, stating that Howe was particularly guilty of using his stick for purposes besides handling the puck.

It was the second time court action had been threatened. The first time the threat was carried out as Detroit fan Steve Kemeny swore out a warrant charging Montreal defenceman Doug Harvey with inflicting a three-stitch cut under his eye. A Detroit magistrate reserved decision until April 11 (tomorrow).

Jean Beliveau was the star of Sunday's game. The big Montreal centre scored his club's first two goals and looked so impressive that Blake enthusiastically called him "the greatest living hockey player."

Beliveau's goals were his 10th and 11th in this season's cup playdowns, near the record of 12 held by Maurice Richard. Beliveau had only three shots on Detroit goalie Glenn Hall, giving him a remarkable percentage for accuracy. In addition to scoring twice, Beliveau dazzled the crowd of more than 15,000 with masterly stickhandling which drew rounds of applause from the Detroit fans.

Olympic Committee Faces Old Problem

The Canadian Olympic Association held its annual meeting at Toronto over the weekend but the extent of Canada's participation in the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne was as far up in the air after the meeting was over as it was before delegates met.

A. S. Dawes, Canadian representative on the International Olympic Council, said that only about 50 per cent of the funds needed to send a team to Australia had been raised and that any attempt to increase the size of the team would "hurt our original aim" because of the increased costs.

It had been originally planned to send 104 athletes and officials but requests were made at the meeting to increase the delegation to 125 persons. Final decision on the size of the team will be made at a June 16 meeting of the COA.

Jim Worrall of Toronto was named to head the Canadian Olympic team with COA secretary Howard Radford as his assistant. Mrs. Myrtle Cook McGowan of Montreal will be chaperone for the women's team.

Eilers Again Champs After Win Over Leafs

TORONTO (CP) — Vancouver Eilers beat Toronto Maple Leafs 56-44 Monday night to win the Canadian senior A women's basketball crown for the seventh straight year. Eilers swept the best-of-five series 3-0.

Paced by Pat Lawson, who scored 18 points on six baskets and six single points, Eilers took an 18-13 lead at the end of the first 10 minutes. Toronto rallied in the second quarter to nose out Vancouver 28-25.

Lawson tallied three consecutive baskets and four set shots in the third frame to send Eilers into a 41-32 lead. Toronto's Helen Caillnetting 15 points during the game —but with five baskets on six tries in the final frame to slice the Vancouver lead to 43-41.

EILERS PULL AWAY

Vancouver stalwarts broke loose with Nora McDermott, Heather Walker and Eleanor Whyte each tapping in a basket to give Vancouver 47 points while Shirley Topley tallied one point and Lawson ended the Vancouver scoring with two singles.

Play became erratic as each team strained to get a substanial lead. Scrambles under the baskets produced fouls for both sides and jump balls were featured in the last half as players fought for possession of the ball.

Soccer Crown Won by Scots

Canadian Scottish won the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association Division II league championship by default Saturday afternoon when Eagles failed to field a full team for their scheduled match at Topaz Avenue park.

In an exhibition game at Topaz park, a combined Eagles-Scottish team defeated Canadian Scottish, 1-0, on a goal by Glen Robbins, Jr.

Baseball Loop Sets Workout

An attempt to form a senior league will be made tomorrow night at Macdonald park by the Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association.

Players, coaches and managers, and anyone interested in sponsoring a club, are asked to turn out at 6.30 for a combined registration and workout. If there are enough players on hand and sponsors can be found for more than one club, a league will be formed.

No senior entries have yet been received but the association reports plans almost complete for the junior and Babe Ruth leagues.

Braves Trim Dodgers, 8-4; Roberts Throws Six-Hitter

Bad weather forced cancellation of four major league exhibition games yesterday but nine of the 16 clubs managed to play as scheduled.

Robin Roberts, star right-hander of the Philadelphia Phillies, showed he was all set to try for his seventh successive 20-game season as he held Boston Red Sox to six hits in scoring a 2-1 victory. Richie Ashburn's home run followed a base on balls to decide the well-pitched game in the sixth inning. Tom Brewer and Leo Kiely combined to hold the Phils to four hits.

Trampled, 12-2, on Sunday, Milwaukee Braves bounced back to best Brooklyn, 8-4, but the Dodgers were well pleased with the showing of youthful Don Drysdale, who won himself a spot on the pitching staff by holding the Braves to two runs in the seven innings he pitched.

Bob Buhl pitched seven impressive innings for the Braves as catcher Del Crandall got four hits and outfielder Henry Aaron got three.

Herb Score and Bob Feller combined for a seven-hitter as Cleveland Indians downed New York Giants, 6-4. Each pitcher gave up a two-homer to the losers, by Gail Harris and Hank Thompson. Steve Ridzik and Hoyt Wilhelm, two of the Giants' relief aces, stopped the Indians cold after they had collected all their runs off starter Al Worthington.

In the other game involving two major league teams, rookie Pat Scantlebury and veteran Joe Black combined to pitch Cincinnati Redlegs to a four-hit, 7-1, decision over Washington Senators.

And in the only trade of the day, the Redlegs traded rookie outfielder Bob Hazle to Milwaukee for first-baseman George Crowe.

Kilburn Fined $100 After Tiff with Fan

Victoria Cougars, whose 1955-56 hockey season ended in Vancouver Tuesday night, continued to make news yesterday.

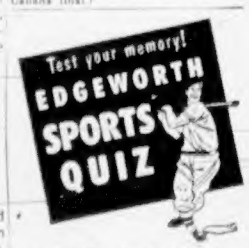

Goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier changed plans to leave immediately for his Milwaukee home and agreed to stay on until the end of the Edinburgh Trophy series as spare goalkeeper while leftwinger Colin Kilburn was fined $100 by Al Leader, president of the Western Hockey League and threatened with an assault charge by a Vancouver fan.

SWINGS STICK

Kilburn's punishment was an aftermath of Saturday's game. Heckled continually by a Vancouver fan, the Victoria captain swung his stick and inflicted a forehead cut which needed stitches to close. The incident took place late in the third period, seconds after Kilburn and his check, Freddy Brown, had been penalized for a short fracas.

Pelletier will stand by during the league final between Vancouver Canucks and Winnipeg Warriors, which opens tonight at Vancouver. He will play if either club should need his services and will also be available when the WHL playoff champion tangles with the Quebec Hockey League survivor for the Edinburgh Trophy.

Second game of the WHL final will be at Vancouver Friday. If the first two games are split, the third will be in Vancouver Saturday night. If either club wins both games, the series will switch to Winnipeg for the third game Tuesday night.

Five Colwood Stars Advance To Eights of Island Tourney

George "Porky" Andrews, Colwood Golf Club champion who shared medal honors with Bob Fleming in the Vancouver Island Open match play tournament, continued his great shotmaking Sunday when he ousted John Merriman of Gorge Vale in reaching the quarter-finals.

Andrews' 2 up victory over the steady Gorge Vale swinger canped a great day for members of the Colwood club. Five Colwood golfers, including defending champion Bill McColl, reached the quarter-finals while the Victoria Golf Club claimed two quarter-finalists and Gorge Vale one.

WINS EASILY

McColl, who was given a tussle in the opening round, had an easier time Sunday as he downed Jack Storrie of Gorge Vale, 6 and 5. Laurie Kerr of Colwood, the city champion, moved past club-mate Joe Evans, 4 and 3; Ted Colgate of Colwood was forced to the 19th green by Jim Robertson before besting his club-mate, and Vince Clarkson of Colwood trimmed Bobby Woods of Gorge Vale, 6 and 5.

Fleming, a former champion, had less trouble than expected against Vic Painter, another Colwood shotmaker 5 and 4. In other matches long hitting Dr. George Bigelow of the Oak Bay links downed Duncan's Gordie Whan, who ousted former champion Bob Morrison in the first round, by a 3 and 2 count, and assistant pro Laurie Carroll of the Victoria club moved along with a 4 and 3 win over Dave Fanthorpe of Gorge Vale.

The scene shifts to the tough Victoria Golf Club course for Sunday's quarter-final matches with some interesting pairings expected to provide some top-flight golf. Andrews tangles with Colgate, one of three former champions still in the running; Bigelow meets the long-clouting Clarkson. Fleming tangles with McColl and Kerr plays Carroll.

Merriman one-putted seven greens on the long first nine to stay close to Andrews but the Colwood belter, who matched par for the 17 holes, finished the match at the 17th green when Merriman slipped to a bogey five.

Fleming started the second nine two up on Painter and, after winning the 10th and losing the 11th, finished up by winning the 13th, 14th and 15th holes.

McColl lost only one hole against Storrie, reaching the turn with a two-hole lead and winning four straight holes coming home. Clarkson had one of the best rounds of the day, matching par in eliminating the veteran Woods.

Robert Beazley of Sidney dropped a decision to Ernie Campbell of Vancouver in the 95-pound division; Allen Thornett of Chemainus was beaten by Billy Point of Mission in the 65-pound class, and Jim Paterson of Port Alberni was beaten by Cliff Olson of Bridgeport in the 100-pound championship.

Heaneys, Merchants Gain Cup Semi-Finals

Heaney's and City Merchants of the Victoria and District Football League entered the semi-finals of the annual Jackson Cup soccer competition with victories Sunday afternoon.

Merchants blanked Esquimalt, 3-0, at Beacon Hill park, while Heaney's nipped Butler Brothers, 3-2, in overtime at Heywood Avenue park. Merchants will now meet Victoria Strathconas at Athletic park Saturday afternoon in one semi-final and Heaney's will clash with Victoria West in the other semi-final match Sunday at Heywood avenue. Both games start at 2 p.m.

GOALIES STAR

Dave Unwin of Heaney's and Doug Patterson of Butlers turned in brilliant performances in goal at Heywood avenue, as the teams battled through a scoreless first half. Heaney's took the lead after 20 minutes of the second half on a goal by Tim Walker but Tom Ewing headed a ball past Patterson with less than a minute to play to force overtime.

Darly Burley fired the winner with a minute remaining in the second half of overtime play.

Charlie Constable was the stand-out player in Merchants' victory as he scored all three goals, two in the second half.

Luckless Venturi Blows to 80 As Burke Wins Masters Crown

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Jackie Burke slipped in as winner of the 20th Masters golf tournament Sunday as front-runners Ken Venturi and Cary Middlecoff collapsed on the final rounds.

Burke, winning his first Masters championship, shot the final round over the mighty 6,965-yard Augusta National course in 71, one under par, for a 72-hole total of 289.

Venturi, the amateur sensation from San Francisco who had led from the start, finally yielded to pressure on the last day before the eyes of some 15,000 fans. He had a last round of 80 and a 290 total, just enough to save second place. Middlecoff, four strokes behind Venturi starting the last round and apparently the only threat to a victory for the amateur, finished with a painful 77 that gave him third place at 291.

Sian Leonard of Vancouver and Lachute, Que., barely got in on the prize money, collecting $480 for finishing b with a 74, good for a five-way tie for 24th place at 303. Former U.S. Open champions Julius Boros and Ed Furgol were among those bracketed with Leonard.

A stroke behind was Al Balding of Toronto, whose closing 74 gave him a 304 total.

INCREDIBLE FINISH

It was about as incredible a finish as the Masters has ever seen—and there have been some other exciting ones. Burke was eight strokes out of the lead at the start of the final round and was barely noticed by the galleries as he played in a twosome between Middlecoff and Venturi.

Burke's victory kept alive the tradition that the Masters can't be won by an amateur (Venturi), by the player who won the year before (Middlecoff), or by one who hasn't had plenty of experience on the demanding par 36-36—72 Augusta course. This was his seventh try for the Masters title.

HIGH SCORE EQUALLD

Burke won with rounds of 72-71-75-71 over a course made more rugged than usual by strong winds on two days. His 289 total equalled the highest ever to win the Masters since Bobby Jones founded a cosy little tournament that grew into one of golf's greatest. Sam Snead and Ben Hogan tied at that two years ago, with Snead winning the playoff.

Snead, a three-time Masters champion, and seasoned Lloyd Mangrum, who has come close on many occasions but has never won, tied for fourth place with 292 totals. Hogan, second here in the last three years, came in with a finishing 75 and 296.

The tournament which appeared to be a breeze for Venturi turned into a nightmare for him—but a thriller for the spectators. The young San Franciscan maintained his front nine as they both shot 38s. But Burke was coming on with a 35. After 13 holes Venturi was only two ahead of both Middlecoff and Burke.

'Death Trap' Kills Mother, Infant Drowns in Well

NANAIMO—A 23-year-old mother of four children was killed in a car accident at a "death trap" bridge and a 2½-year-old girl drowned in a well here Sunday.

Mrs. Margarite Bob, of Nanaimo, died two hours after being admitted to Nanaimo General Hospital after the car in which she was riding crashed into the guard rail of the Nanaimo river canyon bridge at 12.05 a.m.

Gloria White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford White of No. [illegible] a well at 2.15 p.m. in the yard of her parents' home.

Rescued shortly after she had stumbled into the well when pushing a baby carriage down a steep incline, unsuccessful attempts to revive her were made by the Nanaimo fire department and later hospital officials.

MOTHER PINNED

Mrs. Bob, six months pregnant, was thrust from the front seat and pinned against the rear window of the late model car by a guard rail which slashed through the windshield.

Raymond Sorheim, R.R.1, Wellington, driver of the car which failed to negotiate the sudden curve onto the narrow canyon bridge, was still in hospital yesterday suffering from a gash to the leg and facial lacerations.

The bridge has been the trap of several fatal accidents—one this year to Reuben O. Norman of Honeymoon Bay—and many near misses.

Mrs. Victoria Lindall of Victoria, her son Roger and two of his chums, escaped probable death by seconds. They were driving midway across the bridge when the death car struck the guard rail. If the cars had collided, both would have been thrown 44 feet below the bridge, eyewitnesses said.

Although more research work throughout the world is being done on cancer than on any other medical problem, scientists still have not discovered the cause of cancer.

Duncan Dispute Over

IWA Pact Prevents Youbou Mill Closure

DUNCAN—Doman's Lumber and Transport Ltd. had signed a collective agreement with the International Woodworkers' of America (CIO-CCL), ending a dispute that had threatened closure of the B.C. Forest Products mill at Youbou.

A joint company-union statement yesterday said the agreement had been signed to permit organization of employees. Pickets around Doman's were withdrawn and "the men were instructed to go back to work," the statement said.

Company manager Herbert Doman said main provisions of the agreement were for higher pay rates, an eight-and-one-half hour day, and 40-hour work week. Rates for dump truck operators were upped from $1.50 to $1.68½ an hour, for semi-trailer truck operators from $1.70 to $1.80½ an hour, and for casual labor from $1.50 to $1.59½ an hour, he said.

Pickets were placed around company premises last Tuesday after seven men, who had joined the union the Saturday before, were laid off.

Union officials charged the men were laid off because they had joined the union. The company said it was because there was not enough business. One man had been rehired.

Mr. Doman said the other six men were still off work, but would be rehired as soon as work was available for them. A total of 18 to 20 men, all of whom will now join the union, are involved.

The B.C. Forest Products mill at Youbou would have been threatened with closure in the event of a deadlock, if union men had refused to unload Doman trucks.

Jail Follows Impairment

NANAIMO — A 30-day jail sentence was imposed on Allan Douglas Dale, Lake Cowichan, yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a second offence of driving while impaired.

Dale was arrested by RCMP Saturday after he drove into a parked car and caused considerable damage.

Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts also told Dale he would be prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for one year from the date of conviction.

Doctors Hope Logger's Leg May Be Saved

Doctors at Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital were optimistic yesterday that they could save the crushed leg of Port Renfrew logger Stanley Jones.

Jones, 28, was rushed by truck, railway speeder and ambulance to hospital in Victoria Saturday with a severely crushed leg.

He had been bucking logs on a steep hillside. After he had "bucked off" the top of a large log, the estimated two-ton butt rolled against him and pinned his leg against a stump.

"We're hopeful that we will save his leg," a doctor said. "We have much more hope than before."

Foresters' Affair Attended by 250

NANAIMO—More than 250 members and guests attended the formal opening of the newly instituted Foresters' Court in Nanaimo Saturday.

Nearly 10 charter members were initiated and charter officers installed. Initiation of members was conducted by high chief ranger Pinchin, assisted by Ralph Johns, high marshal; John Pearson, high vice-chief ranger; Jess Pearson, high braton and Don Branter, high past chief ranger.

Empty Homes Burn

Fires of unknown origins destroyed homes at Mill Bay and Sooke while occupants were absent during the weekend.

The well-known $25,000 home, "The Cedars," of Mr. and Mrs. E. Selfe, Kilmalu road, was reduced to rubble and standing chimneys by a blaze Sunday afternoon.

Flames cut telephone lines, delaying an alarm to the Mill Bay volunteer fire department.

Mr. Selfe is on a trip to England. His wife and children were visiting in Victoria.

THREE COTTAGES

Fire Chief Gordon Hayes said fire-fighting efforts were directed to saving three cottages and timber on the property.

The five-room home of Mrs. A. Baker-Ashford, Otter Point road, burned unnoticed between 7.30 p.m. Friday and 9.30 a.m. Saturday. She stayed overnight in a second home on the property but was unaware of the fire until morning.

NANAIMO—One man was injured in a fire at Johnson Bros. Motors Ltd., on the Island highway, at 11.15 a.m. yesterday.

Alf Farcour was treated for minor burns to his hands from scalding hot paint. Minor damage was done to the garage in the fire which started when several cans of paint became overheated and exploded.

Beevor-Potts Warns Suppliers of Liquor

NANAIMO — Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts served notice in police court yesterday he will levy stiff fines against anyone supplying liquor to a juvenile.

He announced his crackdown intentions after a 17-year-old boy, pleading guilty to being in possession of liquor, said a man he met on a road bought a case of beer for him.

If any supplier appeared before him, magistrate Beevor-Potts said, "I will fine him more than the $300 minimum for the offence."

"I would like to get one or two of those who are supplying liquor," he said. "It would be an expensive experience."

He fined the juvenile $25 and $4 costs.

Ocean Crossing — Hard on Passengers

Torture Seats Don't Ease Flight

BY JOHN SHAW

LONDON — Guests have no business criticizing the accommodation.

So far as I am concerned the lack of comforts on the big RCAF North Stars flying the Atlantic airlift for the fighter wings in France and Germany is something that scarcely deserves [illegible] of the passage.

But for the men and women who travel on duty it is quite another matter.

On the flight from Montreal to Prestwick which ended three days ago — a stage of my journey to visit the Canadian front line fighters in the European defence system — there were several ratings on their way to courses with the Royal Navy and airmen on their way to [illegible] of the Canucks.

From Montreal to Goose Bay—after more than two hours of waiting for an Ottawa official who was late for the take-off from Dorval—the sailors and airmen sat side by side on a form of seat which might have been built for torture.

It's a sort of canvas hammock strung continuously along the sides of the aircraft. [illegible]

As [illegible] would have it I sat on one of the metal partitions most of the way to Goose Bay which is a matter of more than four hours.

[illegible] FO Bil. [illegible] remembered I was [illegible] and invited me up front where the crew lives and works in flight. It is crowded, but there are airliner type seats, four of them, although they cannot be [illegible]. I remained there riding backwards until I got a chance to sit in the engineer's seat when we were well out over the ocean after quitting Goose Bay at 10 p.m.

If it was uncomfortable in the crew's compartment, it was pretty dreadful in the body of the plane.

The sailors — generally to be counted on for improvisation — took the stretchers off the bunk boards and got a little sleep. One of the airmen slept on a shelf. Others stretched along the [illegible] [illegible] more than 30 hours — mostly in darkness.

Passengers get a box lunch. [illegible] had pork sandwiches [illegible].

The crew, which certainly earns its feeds on steak and eggs and vegetables, tomato juice and other luxuries. It is a hard thing for a man who is eating a pork sandwich to watch others knife-ing through steak.

The passengers didn't complain [illegible] time. But they talked freely enough to me. They would not want to be quoted and [illegible] be possible answer, but they think the government might find it feasible to put a comfortable seat in the trans-Atlantic craft.

It would [illegible].

Chamber Suggests James Bay Area As Site for 'Centennial' Auditorium

Up to 9,000 People Could Be Seated

Centennial Auditorium, a multi-purpose structure seating between 7,500 and 9,000 persons, should be built in the proposed "mall" area of James Bay, civic affairs group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce suggested last night.

The group approved recommendations on same type seating and location of the proposed building from its auditorium subcommittee led by Courtney Haddock, then voted to continue the smaller group on a fact finding basis.

Three primary resolutions which Mr. Haddock said were proposed by subcommittee member Mayor Percy Scurrah, were:

NEED ESTABLISHED

"We are definitely of the opinion that a suitable auditorium is needed for the cultural and [illegible] development of Victoria.

"We recommend the multi-purpose type of auditorium as being the most suitable to Victoria's needs.

"We are of the opinion that an auditorium would be most effective if located within the proposed 'mall' area and we further recommend the committee request the Capital District Improvement Commission when appointed to consider [illegible] this general area as a location for an auditorium."

[illegible] was suggested by Bob [illegible] as an incentive to complete construction of an auditorium by sometime in 1958 which has been designated by the provincial government as B.C. centennial year.

Mr. Haddock said the "mall" area from the legislative buildings to Beacon Hill park, was recommended as the most central location.

A multi-purpose building was urged because he said "the [illegible] auditorium is one of the few making money because of its versatility."

Seating recommendation was made because "we must think of Victoria 25 years from now, when this area is going to have a population of 200,000."

The sub-committee also recommended installation of pipes under the auditorium floor to provide ice.

Mr. Haddock said: "We would be short-sighted if we didn't put those facilities in the floor for use 10 to 20 years from now."

Closing 'Force' Opposed

Civic affairs group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce went on record yesterday as opposing any legislation forcing stores to close one business day a week.

Stand was taken despite the statement of group member Tom Denny that there has been no suggestion or request for legislation to close all-day Wednesday.

Meanwhile it was learned the chamber tourist trade group will hold a special meeting April 20 to discuss proposed five-day and six-day shopping.

Managers of downtown stores in favor of six-day shopping will meet this afternoon to discuss legislation needed to allow all-day opening Wednesday. They will form a Six-Day Shopping Week committee appointing a chairman and secretary.

Mr. Denny, a member of the [illegible] Association which suggested five-day shopping, said: "We were just discussing it. It was not a [illegible] situation, just a proposal round table talk or a little problem."

Majority agreed with Courtney Haddock who said he opposed forcing the stores to stay open six days a week or to close one full day as [illegible].

Building 'Ban' Ignored

An intended "air tight" ban on ribbon development along the Island highway through Saanich may be torn to shreds, impairing its use for defence purposes.

Despite opposition, Saanich council [illegible] passed a motion last night to rezone the Burnside Interurban triangle for construction of an auto court.

Stanley Hope, president of Victoria and Vicinity Motor Courts Association, quoted Marcum [illegible] Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich as saying any ribbon development on the highway would "defeat the main object of the Trans-Canada highway."

Mr. Hope said the route was originally intended for defence use and was "designed for limited access to facilitate fast transportation in and out of Victoria."

It cost $200,000 a mile to build the road for this purpose.

Tests Delay Salk Program

This spring's anti-polio inoculation program for Greater Victoria children—as for children throughout the province—has been delayed by extra tests of the Salk vaccine at the Connaught Laboratories in Toronto, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria-Esquimalt medical health officer, said yesterday.

It will be the first time during the three years that the Monday holiday has not come within 24 hours of the actual anniversary of Queen Victoria's birth.

She told her audience that "a quarter of you are going to die of cancer. Some would die from heart trouble and that with the way the world was going the rest would wind up in a mental hospital."

Mrs. Arsens pleaded for chiropractors and naturopaths although "I wouldn't want any person to think I'm condemning the physicians and surgeons. I'm not."

But she added there was room for all types of healing.

"All these terrible diseases which cause untold suffering are all a result of poor nutrition," Mrs. Arsens continued. "All ailments stem from the wrong diet."

"That's right," agreed the white-haired man.

Mrs. Arsens told a questioner that for internal cancer Dr. Hoxsey gave patients a pill or herb, not a drug, plus a diet. If it was an external cancer a salve was given "and the cancer peels off like an orange peel."

BASIC LUNCH

Above all, remember the surprise element. Variety as far as children are concerned, is of the utmost importance ... don't you agree? What is more dull than an egg sandwich day after day or an apple for ever and ever. To open a lunch and find a new kind of sandwich, a new cookie is almost an adventure. To produce sandwich fillings which are different is merely a matter of time and imagination ... probably more of the latter.

Curlers, Cream — Never!

Joan Watches Health, Calories While Other Women Watch Her

By MAY MANN

"A woman," said Miss Crawford, "rushed up to me and declared, 'It is impossible to look like you do. We are the same age. Have you had a face lift?'"

"I don't diet. I just don't overeat. I've learned not to like things that are not good for me. I'd adore a chocolate sundae piled high with whipped cream and nuts and cherries. Yes, I would ... but if I had it once I'd have it again and again. So, I never have even one."

"A well-balanced diet is paramount with me for good health. Each Sunday I make out the menus for the week for my family, seeing that they have fish one day, chicken the next, veal the next, and a wide variety of vegetables."

"I've learned to exercise as I ... bend over to reach for a cigaret from a coffee table or a cup of tea. I never bend my knees when I reach down to pick up something from the floor. This keeps my body limber. When I made Torch Song and began dancing eight hours a day for the first time in 14 years every one expected me to be muscle-bound. It wasn't easy, but to a certain extent I was ready — because of my daily exercises in movement."

"Wrinkles come from skin being stretched with weight and sagged with the loss of weight. By maintaining an even weight, you avoid them. A makeup artist told me this long ago. That is why I never let myself gain more than three pounds ever. You can say that is easy for me. Let me tell you that I weighed 145 when I was first signed for pictures. I maintain my weight at 132 to 136, which is right for me."

"I scrub my face three times a day with soap and water. When my skin is dry I apply a heavy night cream. However now being a bride, I have had to rearrange my schedule. Since I'm married I don't put cream on my face at night. It just doesn't become a bride and I want my husband to see me at my best. Also, it doesn't go with chiffon nighties. I've had to take time to set my hair and cream my face during the day, when my husband is at his office."

Daily Housework No Help In Achieving Good Figure

By BONNIE PRUDDEN

NEW YORK ...

Posture patterns are formed as quickly in doing housework as they are at a desk. Shoulders round, abdomens go slack and protrude, waists thicken, fat appears on the upper arms. The thighs go flabby and rolls form.

Running around in circles won't produce the body you want; actually that defeats it by adding tension. Diet alone won't do it either. Diet may take off pounds; it never adds tone. And tone is what is needed to give spring to your step and youth to your body.

TV Talk

By ROY PARRETT

Here are some of the developments predicted by Canadian manufacturers in briefs to the Gordon Royal commission on Canada's economic prospects:

By 1960, half of the TV sets sold will be color sets.

"Picture-frame" TV receivers which can be hung on the wall are on their way.

Electronic light will permit bigger, sharper TV images.

Closed-circuit television will become common in business and even in some homes.

First films of the wedding preparations will be seen on regular network newscasts on all stations from Friday on.

As times of wedding broadcasts are somewhat dependent on the arrival of trans-Atlantic airliners, viewers are advised to listen for special announcements on the stations concerned, beginning today.

HIGH OAK BAY NEW SPLIT-LEVEL PANORAMIC SEA VIEW

For months and months this artistic couple planned their home, and saw it created into a thing of beauty, with all the special features that were to make it a joy for ever, completely livable, modern and functional. A fresh concept in interior decorating has created a most pleasing effect, the skillful blending and contrasting shades between the expensive wall-to-wall carpeting, the walls and ceilings, the drapes, the quality plumbing fixtures, the appliances and the slate in the hearth and receiving hall is something you should see. The three bedrooms all have adequate closets, there is an extra 24x14 room which would serve many purposes, extra 2-piece washroom and utility, extra storage space and double carport with wide paved driveway. A lovely oak treed setting with rocky outcroppings, beautiful in its natural state or could be a rock gardener's paradise. Now this couple are leaving the city and their home must be sold in the next few months. Plan to see it soon if you are in the market. Exclusive. Generous terms available. Asking $28,000

Dogs Haul Iron Ore In Ungava

Oceanic Iron Ore Company is using Eskimos with dog teams to haul out testing ore from its huge deposits at Leaf Bay in the Ungava district of northern Quebec.

The ore is being hauled 16 miles from the company's camp to Payne River. Twelve teams of 120 husky dogs and twenty Eskimos are each moving half a ton each trip.

Oceanic Iron has 250,000,000 tons of 25 per cent to 30 per cent ore which can be mined from the surface, and the samples are required to test how this low grade ore can be handled to bring it up to smelter requirements.

Truth About Cancer

(The following is the second in a series of three articles by a Victoria physician who is thoroughly acquainted with the problems of cancer.)

In the previous article (in Sunday's Colonist) it was stated that the basic cause of cancer is not yet known. There can be no doubt that certain factors do make the individual more prone to develop the disease.

Heredity is one factor; many families show the tendency, generation after generation, far too strongly for this to lie in doubt. Chronic irritation is unquestionably a forerunner of malignancy; the man who holds the hot stem of his pipe on the same spot on his lower lip year after year is risking what we call an epithelioma, a variety of skin cancer.

And there seems little doubt that the person who smokes cigarets in chain fashion for 20 years or more stands a far greater chance of developing cancer of the lung than his non-smoking neighbor.

But these and other factors are only the fertilizers, so to speak, that enrich the soil in which cancer may develop.

CHANGE IN CELL TISSUE

The development of cancer depends on a basic change in the tissue cells of the affected system or part of the body. The cell begins to grow abnormally; under the microscope it appears larger and darker than its normal neighbor. It develops the ability to split the nucleus and these split nuclei are called mitotic figures by the pathologist.

And along with these characteristics the malignant cell acquires the ability to migrate. It splits off, or a clump of malignant cells splits off, from the parent body and wanders along the blood or lymph vessels to settle in a new location and to begin to grow as a fresh tumor. This is the group of cells called a metatastasis.

What gives the cancer cell its ability to burst out of bounds, to infiltrate neighboring normal tissue and to migrate to distant parts of the body? What, for that matter, changes the normal cell into a malignant cell in the first place? This is the

Believed Trapped

RCMP Rush Extra Men To Remote Coast Town

KITIMAT—Thieves stole a safe containing $35,000 from the Hudson's Bay Co. store here over the weekend, but are believed trapped by encircling mountains in this remote aluminum smelting town.

RCMP officers said last night the safe was removed from the store between Saturday night and sometime Sunday in what appeared to have been the work of an organized gang. The thieves are believed to have entered the store by a rear door.

At Victoria RCMP headquarters, an official said the loot was made up of $17,000 in cash and $18,000 in cheques. The cheques are probably not negotiable.

An RCMP inspector at Prince Rupert said it would take several men to carry the five-foot-square safe, and he believed it had not yet been blown.

The first major robbery in this new industrial centre of the Aluminum Company of Canada, it was not discovered until yesterday.

A nine-man police squad was sent from Prince Rupert Monday to try to trace the safe, believed to be still in Kitimat.

There are no roads out of this town of 5,000 persons, surrounded by steep mountain ranges, at the head of Douglas channel, but there are ample hiding places among fallen timber for the safe.

Only means of exit are by rail to Terrace in the North-central interior, by boat 100 miles down the Douglas channel to the sea, or by plane.

EDMONTON (CP)—Three Canadian National Railways employees reported Monday that $44,300 had disappeared from an express van. If it was stolen, the theft would be the largest in the city's history.

CNR officials said their checking system indicated the money had been loaded in the van.

It arrived here by train Saturday—city police said it was a consignment from the Bank of Canada—and was destined for the main branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. The money was held in a railway vault during the weekend.

The loss was reported by van driver Lorne Bissell, 40, guard William Roberts, 20, and messenger Edward Gagne, 21.

They said the 8,800 new $5 bills and three new $100 bills were in two packages enclosed in a canvas bag. After delivering $12,600 to one branch of the Royal Bank and $1,500 in silver to a branch of the Bank of Montreal, they said, they discovered only one of two cash bags consigned to the Royal Bank main branch remained in the van. The bag that was left contained no cash.

Martin Pleads for Aid

'Research Alone Can Beat Cancer'

The hope for a cancer cure lies in scientific research, Health Minister Eric Martin said yesterday.

He made the statement in an appeal to all residents of B.C. to give full support to the current Conquer Cancer Campaign—an appeal for funds by the Canadian Cancer Society.

"This appeal . . . is perhaps the most pressing of all."

"The best hope lies in early detection and quick action in surgery and radiology," commented the minister.

He made no reference to the cancer cure claims of Victoria MLA Mrs. Lydia Arsens who has been plugging the cures said to be effected at the Hoxsey clinics in the U.S.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said last week the government did not support Mrs. Arsens' statements.

"The current appeal for funds is to provide enough money to further the excellent research projects and to provide research facilities as well as to provide for educational programs and welfare assistance," Mr. Martin said.

Research all over the world was proceeding in a co-ordinated fashion and there is hope with chemo-therapy, the minister continued.

"There has actually been some response to two specific drugs, out of thousands tried, and althought it might be anywhere from months to years, it appears as if the wall has at least been cracked and success is that much closer," he said.

Important research projects were operating in B.C. and formed an integral part of the over-all research program.

"There exists a tragic need for more trained research people, more physical facilities and these depend upon getting more money," stated Mr. Martin.

The provincial government, he said, this year will contribute $260,000, matched by federal grants, to the operation of the two cancer clinics as well as the travelling clinic which deal with the actual treatment of the dread disease.

"The need is great—cancer is the second greatest killer and the hope for a cure lies in research," concluded the minister. "Support the 1956 conquer cancer campaign."

Village Faces Disaster

EAST RIMOUSKI, Que. (CP)—This small community on the St. Lawrence river south shore has been living for more than a month on the edge of a gasoline-filled area that, in the opinion of experts, might be ignited by a single spark.

Municipal authorities evacuated, at civic expense, families from five homes and ordered the Roman Catholic parish church closed down March 10.

Source of the gasoline is a large, cracked gasoline-carrying pipe.

The density of the vapors in the condemned area is so high, experts say, that static electricity could ignite the gas fumes.

Police chief Yvon Couture, who was ordered from his home Thursday, said he took seven gallons of liquid from his cellar and poured it into the tank of a car owned by a member of his force.

"The car worked fine," he said.

'Leatherneck' Training

Marines Die in Swamp On Disciplinary March

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (UP)—Five marines drowned in a dense tidal swamp and a sixth was missing yesterday after a drill instructor marched a platoon of recruits into the rugged area, apparently to discipline them.

The bodies of five recruits, drowned during Sunday night's march, were pulled from the swamp yesterday. An all-out search, involving a helicopter and civilian shrimp boat, was pressed for the missing man.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Gen. Randolph McC. Pate, Marine Corps commandant, arrived here from Washington to take personal charge of the investigation. A statement released by the Marine Corps in Washington promised that he would "make sure that nothing of this sort could ever happen again on a marine base."

Pate said that a marine corps board of inquiry, already established by Maj.-Gen. Joseph C. Burger, base commander, would begin hearings today.

Though the marine corps did not say so, the action of the drill sergeant apparently was a disciplinary measure.

Capt. Ralph C. Wood, marine corps recruit depot public information officer, was asked whether the night march in the swamp was to discipline the marines.

"It was an action of the drill instructor," he said.

He added that instructors often rout their platoons out at night for drill and other exercises for various reasons.

In its statement the marine corps said a preliminary inquiry showed that McKeon took his platoon on a hike about 9 p.m. EST.

"He marched them about a mile to an uninhabited marshy and swampy area," the statement said. "Not completely familiar with the terrain, the drill instructor led his men into the swamp and into a stream.

"With no lights and in the ensuing confusion, the missing men were lost in the darkness."

Radar Line Goes to Sea

WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration plans a seaward extension of the northern distant early warning line against enemy bombers if congress approves a new $547,100,000 defence fund request.

Defence secretary Charles E. Wilson said the navy would be used to increase navy personnel strength to extend the DEW line into the ocean. It also would provide for operation of early warning aircraft and related bases.

Middle East Warned

U.S. Would Help Against Aggressor

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower, viewing the tense Middle East situation as one of "utmost seriousness," declared Monday the United States is "determined to support and assist any nation" subjected to aggression in that area.

A White House statement issued with "full approval of the president," said the U.S. "in accordance with its responsibilites under the charter of the United Nations, will observe its commitments within constitutional means to oppose any aggression" in the strife-ridden area.

NO ELABORATION

The White House statement, put out shortly after Eisenhower arrived here for a week of golf combined with work, did not go into any detail.

But White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, who issued the statement, said it obviously meant that if the UN declares any nation an aggressor in the Middle East, the U.S. is, as the statement put it, "determined to support and assist any nation which might be subjected to such aggression."

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The Arab-Israeli strife in Palestine Monday night disrupted a meeting of the Communist-sponsored World Peace Council.

Israeli delegates bluntly accused the Soviet Union and her satellites of aiding aggression in the Middle East by shipping arms to Egypt.

The Arabs refused to sit down with the Israelis.

"We will never shake their bloody hands," Arab representatives shouted.

KANSAS CITY (Reuters)—Sir Roger Makins, British ambassador to the United States, said Monday night there is a remarkably wide and satisfactory measure of agreement between Britain and the United States on Middle Eastern aims and policies.

"Of course it is inconceivable that two governments, or indeed two people, should instantly agree without full discussion about what should be done in an exceptionally complex and rapidly moving situation."

A Skinny Kid, All Alone

But you have watched Grace Kelly for several days now: the wet eyes behind the dark glasses when no one was supposed to be looking, the tired shoulders that slump in the corridors, the long fingers twisting nervously over the giant solitaire but wearing more a girlhood yellow band from which dangles a much-kissed cross.

And you have heard her say that she wants to be just a bride, not a star; and like a child announcing she is big enough to cross the street, "I'm twenty-six years old." And you wonder.

Oh, the days and nights are gay as confetti. And there are galas and fireworks ahead, a ballet by Dali, the opera, balls, the Riviera, the flower-sweet wind from Genoa, thousands of bottles of snow-chilled champagne, Verbena red as blood, the solemnity of the Pontifical Mass, the white yachts, the fairy-tale outlines.

She looks ahead, and she looks aft, mostly aft, you note.

History Made

Immigrants Appeal Deportation Orders

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time in Canadian history an immigration appeal board Monday heard in public appeals against deportation orders.

The four-man board, which started operations March 1, heard appeals by Filipo Volo, an Italian immigrant from Toronto, and John Suski of Owen Sound, Ont., a Ukrainian. Decisions were reserved in each case.

Volo, a barber, was ordered deported on grounds that he received a two-month sentence in Italy for allegedly trying to deal in stolen salt.

Suski was ordered deported on grounds that he had been convicted under the Criminal Code of assulting his wife.

The board was set up to offer deportees an option from the previous system under which the immigration minister was the final tribunal.

Those qualified to appeal to the board are landed immigrants—persons who have been admitted as immigrants but who have not qualified for citizenship, and persons who claim to be Canadian citizens but whose status is in doubt. Visitors who have overstayed their time in Canada do not have the right of appeal.

'Hope for Conquest of Cancer Lies in Scientific Research'

The hope for a cancer cure lies in scientific research, Health Minister Eric Martin said yesterday.

He made the statement in an appeal to all residents of B.C. to give full support to the current Conquer Cancer Campaign—an appeal for funds by the Canadian Cancer Society.

"This appeal . . . is perhaps the most pressing of all."

He made no reference to the cancer cure claims of Victoria MLA Mrs. Lydia Arsens who has been plugging the cures said to be effected at the Hoxsey clinics in the U.S.

"The need is great—cancer is the second greatest killer and the hope for a cure lies in research," concluded the minister. "Support the 1956 conquer cancer campaign."

B.C.'s VC Party Gets Cash Grant

Grant of $200 to each of the B.C. residents invited to attend the Victoria Cross centenary celebrations in London this summer will be made by the provincial government.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said yesterday that 27 people would be going to the celebrations from this province. This includes winners of the Commonwealth's highest award for bravery, their relatives, and companions.

"There may be more and if so we will of course make more money available," explained the premier.

Lieut.-Cmdr. Rowland Bourke, VC, 1253 Lyall, said the grant was "very generous, indeed, and of course will be very useful."

Commander Bourke is "definitely" going to attend the celebrations. He leaves here by air with his wife June 16 for a month-long visit.

Also flying from here June 16 is Mrs. Jean T. Combe, Brentwood Bay, widow of Lieut. R. G. Combe, won the VC in France in 1917.

Lieut.-Col. Cyrus Peck, VC, of Sidney, said last night he and his wife would make the trip.

This area's third VC winner, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP, was unavailable for comment last night.

Reds Dangle Credit Lure

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union has granted credits totalling 21,000,000,000 rubles ($5,000,000,000) for industrial development in Communist and non-Communist nations, I. G. Kabanov, Soviet minister for foreign trade, told the United Nations economic commission for Europe Monday.

Revolt Flares

Trouble Shaping In Aden, Bahrein

LONDON (AP)—Britain Monday night ran into new troubles in two key territories in the boiling Middle East.

Signs of anti-British revolt have developed in Aden, a colony at the southern tip of the Arabian mainland. And new threats have been aimed at British influence on the oil-producing island of Behrein in the Persian gulf.

In Aden, dissident Arab tribesmen are being armed to resist a British plan to federate the protected states of southwestern Arabia. Britain suspects Saudi Arabian and Yemeni guns are being smuggled across the desert frontiers.

Bahrein has become the centre of a two-pronged drive to oust the British. Both Iran and Saudi Arabia claim the 300-square-mile island, which lies 20 miles from Saudi Arabia and 150 miles from Iran.

Britain is protector of the island, which she regards as an independent sheikhdom now ruled by Sulman Bin Hamad al Khalifah.

Women Ask Protection From Purse-Snatchers

Aroused by recent purse-snatchings in the city in which elderly women were victimized, the Local Council of Women called yesterday for more police protection, especially at weekends.

The appeal will be submitted to the city police commission in a letter from the council.

Police officials said last night no comment could be made on the request until the letter has been received by the commission.

Two purse-snatching incidents have been reported in the city in less than two weeks.

Mrs. Quong Mar, 66, 811 Caledonia, saved her purse but suffered minor bruises when pushed to the ground by two teen-age youths near her home after dark on March 30.

Two boys, said to be between 12 and 15, snatched a purse the night of April 5 from Mrs. Alice Perks, 85, 828 Courtney, as she walked home from a church service.
